Quo Vadis

Quo Vadis is a weeklong gathering of people interested in creating a strong, supportive community for adult unschoolers and self-educators. We work to empower those dedicated to lifelong learning by fostering a community that cultivates, sustains, and unites individual self-educators and their allies.

Quo Vadis strives to provide younger adults with practical help and support, self-educators in general with an excuse to see one another, and the world with a positive example of self-education and community in action - a place where people can dream big, work hard, and learn much.
